Tommy Wood

Nashville, TN (September 14, 2009) – Tone Baby Records recording artist, Tommy Wood, is striking an emotional chord with country music fans young and old with the current release of his tender-hearted single “Two Little Feet”. Tommy will be performing at the Harvest Festival, South Boston, Virginia, September 26, 2009 show times are 11:15 am stage 3 and 3:00 pm stage 4.

This country troubadour delivers this powerful ballad depicting a relationship between a father and his daughter and the help that he needs to become the example that he must for her sake. Written by Gerald Crabb and produced by Dave Fowler, it is with genuine sensitivity that only Wood can deliver with such conviction the lyrics and verses that resonate with truth coming deep from within. Wood, a single dad raising a young daughter, understands the importance of being a role model for her and the help that is needed on a daily basis from someone stronger than he. Wood perfectly delivers this heartwarming gem. Country music fans young and old are reminded of the way things need to be.

“When my daughter was born my whole life changed. I was so proud to finally be a daddy.” Wood states. “When I came across this song, ‘Two Little Feet,’ I was so inspired while listening to the lyrics. I felt like this song was written about my little girl and me and I had to record it.” Wood says with misty eyes, “the message of this song simply says if she’s following me, then Lord I need to follow you.”

Wood wraps up his 2009 tour in Farmville, VA on October 24, 2009 with his performance at the Charity Fundraiser for Steps Incorporated, a non-profit organization that provides job training for individuals with disabilities where he was invited to perform his current release “Two Little Feet”, and he will then make his way back to Nashville for songwriting and studio time in the winter months.
